'Go for it,' says Cross St. Committee

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Cross Street Advisory Committee has presented the Bethel Board of Selectmen with a strongly favorable analysis of the impact on the town of the proposed Victoria Station development.

And developers of the project are eager to use that report as a jumping-off point for a quick town decision on the project.

Committee member Wende Gray reviewed the conclusions of the report (see boxes below) Monday--for the selectmen and for three dozen interested townspeople who turned out to learn more about the proposed $25 million commercial development.

"In all, the committee is very positive about the project," Gray said. "We made basic assumptions on each issue of our study and the board can carry on from there."

Developer Heinie Merrill said later that he's eager for the selectmen to do just that.

"We did what (the selectmen) asked and worked with the committee," Merrill said. "Now we think it's time to sit down and put something on the table."

That "something" will be the developers' offer for a 6.2 acre parcel of town-owned land in the middle of the project. Merrill has said the project cannot go ahead without that key piece of property.

The selectmen have already met three times with Merrill (in secret session) to discuss options, and met a number of times without the developer present to discuss the deal among themselves and with the town's attorney.

The negotiations are complicated by the fact that the final deal will likely involve compensation for moving the town facilities currently located on the parcel.

Town Manager Madeleine Henley also said later that the selectmen, while positive about the prospects for an agreement with Merrill, feel that he has been slow in coming up with specific information they have requested on the proposal.

Big first step
Monday night's positive report was a major step forward for the project, but many hurdles remain.

If the selectmen and Merrill reach an agreement, the deal must be put before voters at a special Town Meeting. That meeting could come as early as mid-December and would be preceded by a public hearing on the proposal.

Voters would not be asked to approve the overall project, but only to agree to sell the developers an option on the town parcel.

If voters agree, the project would still have to go before the town planning board, as well as receive any necessary state or federal environmental permits.

If all goes well, actual construction could start as early as next spring.

Merrill and fellow developers Les Otten and Grant Wilson hope to have the first part of the project up and running by the 1994-95 ski season, with construction build-out to continue for upwards of five years.

Their sense of urgency is being driven not only by the need to begin generating income as soon as possible, but also by the desire (shared by town officials) to tap into state and federal economic development funds.

Such funds would be used in large part to offset the cost of improvements to the town infrastructure--improvements necessitated by the increased service demands of the project.

Merrill and Town Manager Madeleine Henley told the audience at Monday's meeting that if the developers were forced to shoulder those costs alone, it would drive up the cost of rental space in the project beyond the point where the development would be economically feasible.

Merrill said Monday that space in the development is already expected to rent for $12 to $15 a square foot--roughly three times the going commercial rate in the rest of town. "There's a limit--a workable bottom line," he said.

Otten, who is also the owner of Sunday River Ski Resort, agreed.

Public asked to suggest name for RR station

The public is being invited to suggest names for the railroad station in the proposed Cross Street development.

The original name for the project, "Victoria Station," was greeted with a distinct lack of local enthusiasm and has apparently been dropped from consideration.

As promised earlier this fall, the project developers have now announced a contest to generate a new name, one that reflects the history and geography of the area and/or the railroad theme that is intended to tie together the overall project.

The winning name will be chosen by a committee made up of Stan Howe, director of the Bethel Historical Society; Bill Clough, headmaster of Gould Academy; Wende Gray, owner of Gray Marketing; Skip King, communication director of Sunday River; Winton Scott, project architect; and Nancy Montgomery, the director of a Yarmouth advertising firm.

The person submitting the winning name will win a four-day weekend at the project's New Village Inn. The inn is scheduled for opening in the fall of next year--assuming the project gets the go-ahead from Bethel voters and passes the necessary regulatory hurdles.

In the event of duplicate submissions, the winner will be selected by lottery from among those proposing the winning name. Entries should be submitted to The Merrill Company, P.O. Box 210, Bethel, ME 04217 (Attn: Julia).

Submissions must be postmarked by Nov. 30. The winner will be announced on Dec. 8.

Report conclusions: Dollars make sense

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The bottom line, according to the Cross Street Advisory Committee, is that the proposed Victoria Station project will benefit Bethel economically and create as many as 200 permanent new jobs.

Committee members have acknowledged that their cost/benefit conclusions are of necessity based on rough calculations and a number of assumptions, but the positive potential impact of the project appears to be well documented.

For example, the project is projected to include three phases, but if only one of those phases is completed, by the end of a five-year period the town will be ahead by an estimated $348,000, according to the committee's analysis.

The town will also have a new highway garage and salt/sand shed, as well as substantial upgrades to other town services and infrastructure.

Replacement/relocation of existing highway garage; construction of salt/sand shed

The existing 2,750-square-foot highway garage would be replaced by a new 6,000-square-foot building located either on lots 4 and 5 at the Airport Industrial Park, or at another location in the park or elsewhere in town. (The Airport Industrial Park Committee is opposed to moving the highway facilities to the airport park, and other options are being looked at.)

The developers would pay for constructing both the new highway garage and a salt/sand shed at the site.

Ambulance Garage Relocation

The committee proposes moving the current ambulance garage to the Bethel Area Health Center. Moving the building and installing it at the new site is expected to cost $35,000, which the developers have agreed to pay for.

The Board of Directors of the health center is receptive to the idea,

'The Cross Street Advisory Committee agrees that growth is inevitable and views this project as an opportunity for the town to have a hand in that growth and to gain needed improvements with minimal expenditures to the town. By collaborating with the developers on the feasibility and implementation of their proposition, our town finds itself in a position to share a certain measure of control and influence over the direction in which Bethel moves. We encourage the selectmen to move expeditiously with the land sale/purchase deliberation.'

CSAC REPORT

But . . . Culturally, it depends

By MICHAEL DANIELS

"Everything depends on the quality of planning and execution," wrote Bill Clough in his evaluation of the cultural and environmental impact of the proposed Cross Street development.

"The concept being proposed by Mr. Merrill is consistent with activity in Bethel's recent past and will be palatable, insofar as it is understood and insofar as it inspires the confidence of the Bethel people."

Clough's assessment, based on discussions with and a survey of town residents, points to a number of potential gains from the development, but also to some potential negative impacts.

Among the likely gains: Access to passenger rail service. The chance to head off strip development between Bethel and Sunday River. The opportunity to improve an area of town that is in "sorry shape." A chance to preserve the traditional village as a center of education, historical interpretation, and pedestrian travel. Increased capacity for meetings and conferences. And the opportunity to involve a variety of conservation, recreation and community groups in shaping the area.

Among the possible losses: The difficulty of convincingly integrating a new commercial area into a classic New England village ("The result could be some sort of Yankee-phony theme park"). Limiting river access for pedestrians, bikers, and cross-country skiers. The spawning of other projects over which the town has little control. And the question of whether passenger rail service to the area would ever become economically viable.

Along Main Street

The impact of the project on Main Street would likewise depend largely on planning and execution, according to Clough.

At best, the project would allow Main Street to retain much of its present character, rather than turn into merely a service area for Sunday River. And variety and competition as well as increased volume of $20,000 in ski gear stolen at Mt. Abram

By WENDY HANSCOM

Thieves made off with nearly $20,000 in ski clothing and other ski equipment last week from the Keenan Store at Mt. Abram.

The Keenan Company reported losing $19,710, most of the loss being clothing, including: scores of jackets, pants, gloves, goggles and other outdoor clothing.

Renovations were underway at the store, according to Keenan employee Nancy Fogg, and most of the stolen items were still boxed.

Oxford County Sheriff's Office Deputy Charles Taylor said the thieves smashed a window to get in.

There are no leads or suspects in the burglary at this time, Taylor said.

Bethel Police are also investigating an attempted break-in at Port Sports on lower Main Street. Both the Keenan burglary and the attempted break-in at Port Sports were reported last Wednesday.

School Board rescinds fuel decision

By WENDY HANSCOM

The SAD44 School Board last week rescinded its vote to award the district's fuel oil and burner service contract to Brooks Bros. of Bethel.

The board considered bids last month and rejected C.N. Brown's bid, which was the low bid. The board elected to go with a higher bid from Brooks Bros., because it was a "local business."

Brooks Bros.' bid was $516 higher than C.N. Brown's, according to Jack Brooks of Brooks Bros. School officials had originally said the Brooks Bros. bid was $750 higher.

But at last week's board meeting, the directors reversed themselves and agreed with the finance committee's recommendation that last month's vote should be rescinded and the contract should go back out to bid.

The bid specs will be clarified before the contract goes out again, according to Finance Committee Chairman Merton Brown.

Local C.N. Brown representative John Wheeler objected to his firm being viewed as an out-of-town business. C.N. Brown was awarded the bid last year.

"Our argument is not with Brooks Bros.," Wheeler said. "They're a super competitor and a super business, but that we were rejected because we were not a local business."

C.N. Brown operates the The Big Apple gas and convenience store and provides fuel oil and burner service through Ripley & Fletcher. Both businesses are located on Railroad Street. The company also owns the building which houses the Red Top Truck Stop on Route 2, and the former Ripley and Fletcher building on the corner of Main and Vernon streets.

Both Wheeler and Jack Brooks said they agreed with the board's decision to put the contract back out to bid.

Both men said they had talked to district officials about the bid process and welcomed any effort to make it fair.

"Everyone gained," Brooks said. "Someone will get the bid, but it's not going to break Brooks Bros. or C.N. Brown if they don't."

TELSTAR TRACK PROGRESS

To the Editor:

The track committee of the Telstar Athletic Boosters met on Oct. 27 at Sarah Craig's home on Bailey Road. As a result of previous site investigations and further discussion at that meeting, it was decided to start securing the various approvals that will be required to start building a track at Telstar.

A track facility at Telstar will be a major asset to all of the residents of SAD44, students and adults alike. The obvious use is of course for the middle and high school track teams, both boys and girls. It could also be utilized in some aspects of physical education. But the most important use is for everyone, whether school is in session or not. Adults who want a safe place to power walk or jog could use it. Maine USA Track and Field organizes age group track and field meets during the summer. These are available to people from age 10 (Bantam) to age 50 (Masters). For young people the meets are a lot like Little League where they only compete against others their age. People who excelled at their events would have the opportunity to go on to the Eastern USA Track and Field championships and possibly the Nationals. Young people from Maine are already gaining this recognition. A track facility at Telstar would enable our young people to achieve this same recognition.

There is a lot of work still to be done before this dream becomes a reality. We need people to help achieve this ambitious project. Get in touch with Sarah Craig, Carroll Higgins, or me if you would like to be part of a track program for the SAD44 community.

EXPLORATIONS EXHIBIT

To the Editor:

The after-school art program EXPLORATIONS is in its third year and about to complete the fall season. Sixty-one students in grades one through 12 will display their art work in the fifth bi-annual Student Art Exhibit at the Summit Hotel at Sunday River on Saturday, Nov. 20 from 2 to 4 p.m. The public is invited to the reception. Refreshments will be provided and there is no charge.

I'd like to express my gratitude to Charlie Sullivan of the Summit Hotel for generously providing exhibition space for this important event. For the students who work hard for 10 weeks, sharing their art with the public is a vital completion of the creative process.

I'd also like to thank the following sponsors who have supported the scholarship fund. One-third of Explorations' students receive financial support. Current program sponsors are: S. Epitha Merckson, Leslie B. Otten, Bethel Savings Bank, Walter and Carolyn Hatch, William H. Keiffer III, Dick and Wendy Penley, Jessica Frankel, Nina and Daniel Reich, Will and Marguerite Graham, Andover Women's Service Circle, Richard and Carole Duplessis, Dr. and Mrs. John Mason, Pat Thurston, Karen Hakala, Dick and Sally Rollinson Taylor, and the parents of participating students.

Bethel PB OKs salon, track

By WENDY HANSCOM

The Bethel Planning Board last week approved a hair salon on Route 2 and a subdivision on the Intervale Road, but put off ruling on Carl Hansen's request for a road variance in his Egypt Mountain subdivision.

The proposed subdivision, located on the East Bethel Road, is split by Goss Pond. Hansen has sold lots on the north side of the pond. He now wants to create a subdivision so he can sell lots on the south side of the pond.

Because Goss Pond is under 10 acres, property on both sides of the six-acre pond is considered part of the proposed subdivision.

Planners originally told Hansen that a road serving the north-side lots must meet town road specifications before he can sell any land on the south side of the pond.

But Hansen has asked for a variance under subdivision "undue hardship" criteria that would allow the north-side road to stay as is.

However, according to Planning Board Clerk Nancy Schlieper the board was hesitant to grant a variance because according to state ordinances the road would be part of the proposed subdivision.

The board will seek an opinion from the Maine Municipal Association to see whether or not a variance would be in keeping with state precedent.

A special Planning Board meeting was scheduled to be held last night to discuss the issue further.

New beauty shop on Route 26
Planners also gave sisters Deborah Luxton of West Bethel and Jane Cyr of Hanover the go-ahead to put a hair-dressing shop in a house formerly owned by Richard Douglass on Route 2 (next to the China Gem).

Planners also approved Wanda Johnson's plan to add eight more lots to her Johnson Park subdivision on the Intervale Road.

No site plan for Telstar track

Joseph Aloisio of Newry asked the board last week whether or not a proposed 140-meter track for Telstar high and middle schools needed to go through the site plan review process.

The board unanimously decided the track did not need too be reviewed.

Aloisio told the board the track will be located on wooded land behind the schools' gymnasium. The land will have to be cut and filled before the gravel track is built.

FD gets second free truck

By WENDY HANSCOM

For the second time this year the Newry Fire Department has been given a fire truck.

Selectmen announced last week that the Town of Stoneham has given Newry a 1967 Ford F700 pumper truck.

Earlier this year Sunday River Ski Resort donated $30,000 to help the town purchase a ladder truck. The ladder truck allowed the town's planning board to grant Sunday River permission to build penthouse occupancy space into the fourth floor of its Summit Hotel.

The new pumper truck from Stoneham has a 900-gallon water tank and has been driven 7,000 miles.

Newry Fire Chief Virgil "Tink" Konkright said the Stoneham Fire Department purchased a new truck and passed its old truck on to Newry.

The Newry Fire Department also recently added to its fleet two trucks on loan from the Forest Service—a Dodge pickup, and a two-and-a-half-ton, all-wheel-drive truck.

Property tax relief

Administrative Assistant Sylvia Gray also told selectmen last week that the town has received $730.06 in property tax relief from the state.

The money cannot be spent until after the next annual Town Meeting. The selectmen plan to discuss how to use the funds and include their recommendation on the Town Meeting warrant.

A public hearing is scheduled for Nov. 23 at 10 a.m. at the Town Office on Shawn Martin's request for a liquor license for the Den Restaurant at the Bear River Store. Martin plans to open the restaurant in December.

Greenwood

Voters agree to plow truck

By WENDY HANSCOM

The dozen-plus voters at last week's Greenwood special Town Meeting overwhelmingly approved buying a new $53,000 plow truck.

Two town accounts will split the bill for the truck. Selectmen will take approximately $26,000 from the sale of recent town-owned property and another $26,000 from its Road Equipment Reserve Account to purchase the truck, a new truck body and plow equipment.

Town officials plan to put the old plow truck out to bid. Road Commissioner Alan Seames said he hopes to have the new truck within a few weeks.

Voters also agreed to spend

$5,500 from the town's office equipment account to buy out the lease on the Town Office's new copy machine.

Selectman Marie Bartlett said buying out the lease will save taxpayers approximately $2,000.

There will be no additional tax dollars raised to pay for the new plow truck or buying out the lease, according to Bartlett.

"We're not the Maine Mall," he said—"we can't charge $21 a foot for space."

Henley concurred with the developers that the town has a role to play in keeping the rents affordable. "If the town can help gather in grant money for up-front expenses, it's money saved down the line and the more successful this development is going to be," she said.

Such funds are currently available, in part because of the poor state of the Oxford County economy, but no one is sure how long they will be there.

"Heinic wants to take advantage of a window of opportunity," Otten said. "He needs to get to the Department of Environmental Protection by the first of the year, as there is federal and state monies available, but who knows if those will still be available a few months down the road?"

Woodstock

Hand and Brown resign from PB

By WENDY HANSCOM

Woodstock Planning Board Chairman Margaret Hand and board member Gordon Brown have both recently resigned from the board.

Hand said she no longer has the time required to do the job. She is also chairman of the SAD44 Board of Directors and a member of the NOVA Region 9 Board.

Mark Stearns will replace Brown on the board.

Town Manager Vern Maxfield said there are still openings for one full board member and one alternate. Anyone interested in serving on the board should contact the town office, he said.

The Big Boot

By MIKE BROWN

The message hasn't yet sunk into the minds of Maine folks, who by their term limits approval, will have completely changed state government, and probably starting in 1994 instead of 1996 when consecutive eight-year terms become the political guillotine.

Currently, there are 83 incumbents—57 Democrats and 26 Republicans—who have a two-year respite and the 117th legislature grace standing between them and honorable discharge. These legislators are agonizing. Many have found a safe home in the legislature. They are well-compensated professionals lounging in a citizen's legislature. These endangered plank owners will have to run for their opposite house bodies in hopes of winning a new eight-year string, find personal surrogates to keep their seats warm for a couple of years, or return to the hardscrabble pasture of reality.

But the big boot becomes awesome when, added to the present four-termers, are another 12 D's and four R's who if they choose to run in 1994 and are elected, also become four-termers in 1996. This would mean the very real potential in the 1996 elections for a mandated 99-legislator exodus (53 percent) of 69 incumbent Democrats and 30 Republicans. Nothing like this has ever happened in Maine politics and maybe not in any other state either.

Consider the resounding transformation of political power. The majority Democrats will be devastated in power names if not seats. Gone will be House Speaker Martin, Senate President Dutremble, 28 or 66 percent of the 42 House and Senate chairs of the 21 Joint Standing Committees which are all Democrats.

Adding fuel to the Democrat's pyre is the new redistricting, law which puts two incumbents in 21 districts. The majority of these are Democrats. Not that Republicans can sprout as Phoenix birds from the Democrat ashes because, like Phoenix, they did consume themselves. But they have been given a once-in-a-political-lifetime opportunity for another majority legislative life.

Just one legislature away, Maine will also have a new governor and his administration confronted or complemented by up to a half a freshman legislature, new floor leaders, new committee chairs.

The Speaker of the House is the most powerful of all legislators. John Martin's reign of 20 years will have come to a bittersweet end with the close of the present legislature in June, 1994. Some would prefer it earlier, but forced ouster against party loyalty cannot win.

There is no dearth of John Martin successors in the speaker wings. But accepting conventional political wisdom that Democrats will still be a majority in the House, the wing walkers haven't really impressed anybody as filling the big guy's big socks.

If the 1996 Legislature really wants a clean sweep of perpetual bickering, bad government and negative partisan politics (to which the people's referendum seemed to speak loudly) then it might consider the option in the Maine Constitution, Article IV: "The House of Representatives shall choose their speaker, clerk and other officers."

That means that the speaker doesn't have to be a legislator. A speaker could be selected as a non-partisan outsider, or a slate of candidates by a coalition of Republicans and Democrats and then voted into office by the legislature.

This presupposes, of course, that partisans sever their political power of the spoils system whereby winner takes all. That very deep-rooted partisan canon seems to be the scourge of governments today—rampant personal politics dominating the general welfare.

The lesson of unanimous approval of term limits in Maine and other states, and for surely Congressional elections in the future, is that legislators have failed to get the message.

The Declaration of Rights message: "All power is inherent in the people; all free governments are founded in their authority and instituted for their benefit; they have therefore an inalienable and indefeasible right to institute government, and to alter, reform or totally change the same when their safety and happiness require it."

according to the report and to BAHC Exec. Dir. George Larson II.

Recycling Center relocation

Relocation to the town's water pollution control facility is proposed. The bins would be located on the outside perimeter of the plant, at an estimated cost of $2,500, to be paid for by the developers.

Taxes

Current taxes on the property proposed for development are $7,500 per year. If all three phases of the project are carried to completion, the report estimates that the property would generate from $119,100 in taxes (for 1995) to $488,962 in taxes for 1998.

Water

The development would provide the opportunity to make necessary ongoing improvements to the domestic water supply and fire flow, according to the report. The developers are currently in discussions with the Bethel Water District to upgrade water supply at Chapman Brook and to increase fire flow from the Paradise Hill holding tank.

Roads

Phase I of the project would leave the town with 1,100 more feet of roadway, at an annual estimated maintenance expense of $4,200. The relocation of Cross Street to become a new state-aid road along the river will be paid for with state funds (the money has already been allocated), and the upgrade and partial rerouting of the existing Cross Street will be the responsibility of the developers.

Sewerage

The Sewer System Development Charge for Phase I is calculated at $168,000, Phase II at $60,000, and Phase III at $60,000 (these fees are based on flow estimates provided by the developers). The estimated sewer usage fees as the three phases come on line are $42,000, $57,000 and $72,000.

The cost of improvements to the sewerage treatment system, in order to handle the increased flow, is estimated at $220,000. Annual operating expenses to serve the new development are estimated at $4,750.

Other Services

Increased services to support the project would include an additional police officer ($25,000 per year), solid waste expenses ($14,000 per year) and additional fire equipment ($120,000).

Culture

shoppers could make Main Street businesses more successful.

But on the downside, present business owners on Main Street may be overwhelmed by the new competition, or feel forced to move if they are to protect the present customer bases. Improving pedestrian access between the project and the village could also be costly.

Environment

Environmentally, Clough wrote, "Almost anything would be an improvement over the present situation."

Specifically, "The idea of a monitored greenspace along the Androscooggin is an idea whose time has come. At present the area in question and the river are under-utilized and badly managed resources."

The proposed park would also encourage people to take more vigorous advantage of the area. "While automobile traffic will not go away," Clough wrote, "the prospect of train service combined with people walking, biking, skiing or snowmobiling is an attractive idea."

On the negative side, the wetlands issue must be considered, especially in phases II and III of the project, and there is also the danger of encroachment on songbird habitats and other wildlife areas.

The public can enjoy the treasures of our area at the historical museum. The library in the historical museum is in better order now, thanks to the new shelves furnished by the building committee. prayer was said by Gil Seeley. Secretary and treasurer Peggy Wight and assistant Olive Anderson read the notes of the last meeting and brought the finances and correspondence up to date. It was voted to bring some gifts picked by names instead of having a secret pal list.

Also voted was a sum of money to pay for the Thanksgiving baskets for the shut-ins. Karlene and Gil will make them up and distribute them. Birthday greetings went to Peggy Wight and Mary Morin. The mystery prize was won by Nancy Wight. There was a show-and-tell during the social hour and snacks were enjoyed. The next meeting will be Dec. 13 with a potluck supper and exchange of Xmas gifts.

Gilead

By LOUISE LORING

The hills are bleak and barren about town and a few golden leaves cling to the oak trees in quiet desperation, hunters dot the landscape adorned in their blaze-orange vests, caps and trousers and other pertinent attire. Local taggings are sparse, but the ones that didn't get away are sure to be good eating (as the fella says) as there is an overabundance of acorns and wild apples this year, and it is rumored that the hardwood ridges are "all tracked up." Raymond Chapman was one of our lucky hunters.

Millie McLain was startled recently by a late evening caller that darted upon her porch and was eating from the cats' dishes. It was none other than young Reddy Fox himself. Her neighbor, Ellen Amadon, was quite adamant (no pun intended) by his unwelcome presence and proceeded to yell at him and hit the side of her house with her broom. Yours truly then observed him speeding along at a fast fox-trot across the sanctuary of my neighbor's lawn, looking back over his shoulder to see if Ellen was following in hot pursuit. Good going, Ellen! Your courage and valor will always be remembered.

The Little Red Schoolhouse Country Store will be closed for the winter months. We will miss them.

Beverly Corriveau and Melissa Hutchins are doing shiftwork at Sandy's Kitchen in West Bethel.

Kathy Cole and two other members of the Head Start faculty are in Los Angeles, Calif., attending a national seminar on the education of younger children. Credit hours will be applied toward their degrees in education.

Reuben Clapper of Island Pond, Vt., was a guest of his sister Ellen Amadon recently.

Josie Greenwood attended a retreat for the Nazarene Church out of town this past weekend.

Audrey Franklyn spent Veterans' Day with her son and family and friend in Westbrook.

This past week was a short week due to our Veterans' Day holiday and a teacher workshop on Friday. It was a good break for students and staff.

The children have been working hard at all levels. The kindergarten children have been celebrating Rainbow Week. They are learning to read the names of colors, or at least to identify the first letter of the colors, by labeling lots of items around the room. They also have been dressing for school in a special color for each day. The next project will be to put together a color book to include the words and the colors, as well as their paintings.

The first-graders have been learning about veterans and the celebrating of Veterans' Day. They have made their own Veterans' Day book to take to the American Legion group in this area. This week the class will be learning more about families, here and around the world. They will be learning about customs and why we celebrate other holidays. In math they are beginning patterns and are making wampum beads, Indian headaddresses, and patterned placemats.

Mrs. Merrill's second-graders have made owl puppets after having read Arnold Lobel stories. They are now writing their own stories. They are sending thanks to Mr. Jim Chandler for his work with them on soil profiles and posters and they are sending thanks to Mrs. Cynthia Tinsley for her story telling about a Japanese crane. Mrs. Tinsley continued the project with an activity making Origami cranes.

The third-graders are studying native Americans. They are reviewing their journals. On Tuesdays at 2:30 my fifth-graders are visiting to share their writings. This week Amanda Brulotte, Abby Inman, Shawn Boutiller and Aaron Brough read their stories. Mr. Burke has been taping his class, as well as other classes and we have been on Channel IV. In math the class is working with attribute blocks and studying math facts.

Mr. Litchfield and his fourth-graders are sending their appreciation to the Norway Fish and Game Association for their donation of the "Tracks" magazine. This magazine teaches about wildlife, and is a favorite of the fourth-graders. The class has been quizzed on the 16 counties of Maine; they are beginning their study of electricity in science; studying blueberrying in our state; and are reading about dinosaurs.

My fifth-graders are reading Sid Fleischman's "The Whipping Boy"

SAMPLING THE WATER—Dan Varisco and Abby Wiggins, students in a Gould Academy environmental science class, examine a water sample taken from the Androscoggin River last week. They and other class members are measuring turbidity, pH, dissolved oxygen and current velocity—similar to parameters taken by state and federal water quality regulators—in the Androscoggin, Sunday River and other local waters. (Photo by Kirk Siegel) and are reporting on it via a journal that we made last week. In the journal they are reporting about the facts of the story, and also their thoughts and feelings about the book. So far most agree that it is not fair for the servant to be whipped for the prince's offenses.

We are beginning our health unit which will cover nutrition, the food groups, advertising, labeling, etc., as well as the body systems.

The sixth-graders are working on an ocean story, having finished reading "The Cay." They are now reading "Courage at Indian Deep." They are working on their math facts and are working with multiplication and division of fractions. In science they are working on Earth Movements. They are addressing the question: Did the continents really drift apart?

The support for our community visioning night was fantastic. Over 50 people attended and shared their thoughts and ideas of what our West Paris schools could be like in the year 2010. We are setting our sights high. There were many innovative ideas, and there were many ideas, values, suggestions that were held in common. It was a very positive evening.

Additional NOVA summer courses considered

By KEN SCOTT

Northern Oxford Vocational Area Region 9 is considering establishing a third term during the summer, with academic and vocational courses offered for academic or enrichment credits.

NOVA Director Dewaine Craig held a meeting last week at the NOVA offices in Mexico to gauge staff interest in teaching over the summer.

"Right now we are at the developmental stage, trying to find any staff person who is interested in teaching during the summer," said Craig.

NOVA has compiled a list of possible courses, including academic courses such as Spanish, economic U.S. history, applied math and physics, and vocational courses such as metal trades, building trades, welding and auto mechanics.

Craig asked interested teachers to fill out a request form for the courses they would like to teach for Term 3.

"From this meeting, we will move to a course development stage, he said.

NOVA's Term 3 would consist of six weeks of class, for two hours a day, five days a week, and credit for the summer session will follow state established guidelines, Craig said.

Craig has set a rough timetable to get NOVA Term 3 going.

"By December, we would like to have the people who want to be involved, so we can work on the curriculum, the schedule and the budget," he said. "From there we go to the school board for approval in December or January, and then if approved we will print flyers in February and start really working on public relations in April."

"By mid-June, we would start to look at applications and the courses offered to see if we had enough response to offer the courses," he said.

Craig added that the courses would be open to adults as well as students and the class schedule would be "really flexible," focusing on early morning or late afternoon classes to allow for summer employment.

"Term 3 may also allow students who would like to take NOVA courses, but need to finish other course requirements, to do both," said Craig.

Craig said that the location of the classes would depend upon which school the instructors usually work at.

"We would like to have some classes available at all three high schools of Region 9, and some courses may be held at off-campus locations," Craig said.

Craig said that course costs will vary depending on each situation. Some students may get full scholarships while other people may pay part or all of the cost.

NOVA will offer $15 an hour to educators willing to teach over the summer. Anyone interested in such teaching should contact NOVA at 364-3764.

JUDY WEBSTER

JUDY WEBSTER PROMOTED

Bethel Savings Bank has announced the promotion of Judith Webster to teller supervisor of the Bethel Office.

Webster is a long-time employee of Bethel Savings Bank, starting in 1977 as a teller. Since that time she has held a variety of positions, most recently in the bookkeeping department. Her new responsibilities will include overseeing the teller area and working directly with customers.

Webster is an active member of the Bethel Alliance Church and resides in Bethel with her husband, Drew.

Task Force notes:

A celebration potluck dinner drew 22 members of the Bethel Area Task Force to its Nov. 7 meeting. On festive balloons, participants noted the past year's Task Force accomplishments; among them were the Education Fair and booklet, the Coffeehouse, the Retirement Living Community, the Customer Relations Seminars, and the revitalized NTL-Bethel programming.

The committee investigating a retirement living community meets monthly and has progressed quickly, having raised the necessary money to move onto the survey phase of their work. The Just Imagine Coffeehouse opens from 7 to 10 p.m. the first Saturday of each month at the West Parish Congregational Church in Bethel. The last performance, with the Castlebay duo, was remarkably successful, with about 90 attendees. The next performance will be Stan Moeller and T.S. Baker on Dec. 4.

Kathi Schandelmeyer, Bethel NTL director, gave an update on NTL plans, reporting an infusion of the organization's energy and money into innovative programs in Bethel. The next season will be slightly longer than this year's. Impressive redecorating has been done in the NTL Conference House, but winterization plans are on hold.

The next meeting of the Task Force will be Sunday night, Jan. 16, 7 to 8 p.m. at the Bingham House. It is hoped that there will be the same variety of interested citizens as at the potluck supper.

CHAMBER FINDS NEW HOME—The Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce relocated last week to the former Martha's Restaurant site. Holding the chamber sign are: Executive Director Robin Zinchuk, Administrative Assistant Becky Kendall and Reservationist Donna Halacy. Back across the street, the Java House plans to expand into the space vacated by the Chamber. (Photo by Wendy Hanscom)

Unstrung Quartet at Gould

This month's Gould Academy Performing Arts Series program will feature The Brooks Unstrung Quartet, a polished blend of classical music and zany humor. The show will take place in Bingham Auditorium Thursday, Nov. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

The Brooks Unstrung Quartet has created a niche for itself by combining a high level of classical musicianship with a parody of classical music itself," says Gould Director of Public Affairs Kirk Siegel. "They've been supported and encouraged by people like Peter Schickel (of P.D.Q. Bach fame) and cellist Janos Starker." According to Gould music director Paul Nelson, at Gould's request the Quartet will include Overture to "Die Fledermaus," since 110 students and faculty recently signed up for and attended a trip to "Die Fledermaus" last month in Portland.

Last summer the Quartet headlined for Jerry Lewis in the Montreal Just-For-Laugh Comedy Festival, an event that was recorded and broadcast internationally by CBC television. The group was recently featured on a 45-minute Voice of America program that was broadcast around the world via satellite.

Tickets may be purchased at the door. Admission for the show is $3 for students and $5 for adults. The performance is part of the Gould Academy Performing Arts Series. Further information may be obtained by calling 824-3575.

STUDENT ART ON SHOW AT THE SUMMIT HOTEL—Thomas Parsons (left) and Billy Murphy display their wood sculptures, which will be part of the fifth bi-annual Explorations student art exhibit on Saturday, Nov. 20 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Summit Hotel at Sunday River. Student art works on display will include: wood, metal relief and clay sculptures, collagraph prints, paper "molas," oil pastel still-lives and paper painted mobiles. (Photo by Wendy Hanscom)

WINTER DRIVING TIPS

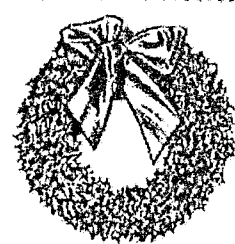

The first significant snowstorm of the year can be troublesome to highway maintenance crews as well as to other motorists, according to a Maine Department of Transportation official.

"The changes in driving conditions affect our drivers just as much as they do the average motorist," explains John E. Dority, director of MDOT's Bureau of Maintenance and Operations.

"Probably the most serious mistake a driver can make is to wait until the first snowfall to check the condition of a vehicle's tires," Dority continues. "That delay results in many drivers being forced to face the first storm with worn tires still on their vehicles."

"And when the first storm does arrive, remember that changes in road and weather conditions require changes in everyone's driving habits, including those of our snow-plow drivers. They will be exercising additional caution during the first storm and we hope other drivers will do likewise," Dority urges. "As with any new situation, the better prepared we are ahead of time the better we can adjust to the situation," he concluded.

This is the 10th day of November, how the time goes!

Frosty nights now bring frosty dawns, when the bushes and twigs and weed stems along the pond are covered with hoar frost. They stay that way; a fantastic world of filling until the sun is well up.

As I write, the sun has just peeked into the valley; it's late but it's rays are beginning to dissolve the mist clinging to the pond weeds. Most of the pond is frozen over. It is a typical fall morning, crisp in the shadows, warm in the sun.

Our weather this week has had very little variation. I certainly can't describe the weather; I know so little about it. But have you ever stopped to think about the natural phenomena in the sky?—the stars, the moon, the sun and what they do. We talk about the weather but think little about the why it is so. Take for instance the clouds and the several kinds: cumulus, cirrus, stratus, and nimbus. I remember to this day when I was in a science class and learned about them.

Both clouds and weather vary within a region because of differences in geography and plant life. I'm interested when fall comes to hear the remarks about what winter is going to be like by such sayings as the width of a caterpillar's stripe or the height of the bee's nest from the ground.

This is a lovely time to walk, even just in the road. It's good, too, to stand in my yard and gaze at the placid pond under the blue-white sky. Autumn never gives a hoot for its appearance. Dry goldenrod and aster substitute for daisies and buttercups in the meadow. The air is crackling and brown seed cases are everywhere. I like the fall but many look at it with sadness. I like the emotional response to it. There's the lonely, restlessness and yearning, a strange sadness—but there's the gorgeous landscape and tangy air.

So I walk and return home realizing that it's time for the season change and there are many things to see. The deer, fox, and I will wander through the fall and winter as we have through the spring and summer and think of the many things to be thankful for; such as the dawn as it comes slowly over the hill, the birds waking and happy at the feeders; for giving me noontime when the sun stands high, for the quiet afternoon when the sun moves lazily westward to set in majestic glory, for the evening when the night begins to tuck us in and the moon beckons us out to watch it settle; for the stars giving a brilliant welcome to lovers in the crisp clear air; for the land on which I thrive and the goodness that we all get from it. And when I grow weary of treading through fallen leaves, or plunging into the snow or imbibing the sweetness of the spring, I certainly offer thanks for my home that I may go to and the comfort it brings. Surely from the country in which I live and the freedom that I have. I am thankful for my many friends, for my neighbors who are special and my loving family; for all these and much more I offer my ardent thanks. I hope everyone thinks of blessings at this Thanksgiving season.

The main excitement in our community this week was the moving in of Mr. and Mrs. Fran Piccirillo's new house. It's a beautiful place and we are glad they chose to stay in our community.

My brother, Ernest Curtis, is again back in the CMMC Hospital at this time.

I was surprised but delighted to have a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Awalt of Augusta this week; we had corresponded but never met until now. I was pleased.

The pond is covered with its winter coat today except part of the channel. That is always the last to freeze and the first to open in the spring.

I have been ill for several days so my report may not make the news until late. Sorry.

My neighbors have been most kind bringing my wood and my mail. My niece, Ann, and my brother and sister, Leonas and Fay were special to come and stay with me, each on a different night. I am very grateful to all who helped me.

East Stoneham

Winfield Adams and Craig Adams got their deer this past week.

Ellery Lawrence has been sawing wood for Albert Nelson Sr.

Bradley Nelson and friends from Winslow were at his place here last weekend and got in some hunting.

Gladys Kilgore, along with several others, saw two pretty live deer on her lawn one evening last week.

The Cub Scouts from Pack 155 picked up the bags of food from townpeople last Saturday. This was in the Scouting for Food program. I have heard that they missed quite a lot of people's homes that had bags out that didn't get picked up. Perhaps something can be better organized or something for next year.

Everett Morrison has started working at the Western Maine Nursery in Fryeburg.

Phyllis Adams has reported that she has a new granddaughter Celeste, and all are doing well.

Carolyn Heino is in the Stephens Memorial Hospital where she had knee surgery on Nov. 9.

Helen Smith, who used to be a resident of East Stoneham years ago, is in the Rumford Nursing Home and would love to get cards from people she used to know. She is a niece of Gladys Kilgore.

The East Stoneham Thrift Shop is being closed for the winter months due to the cold weather and will be opening again in April 1994. Delilah Millett wishes to thank all that donated something and time in helping her. The Thrift Shop not only helped the Church, but it also helped many families. The shop has been a big success and she will be looking for donations for it in the spring.

On Tuesday, Nov. 9, there was a meeting at the parsonage of the Stoneham Church with about 13 members present. Much business was discussed, one in particular was that the wheel in the belfry which helps ring the church bell has some broken parts which need to be fixed and the louver there need to be fixed. These are the vent slats to let air in, snow and rain out. The stones and posts under the dining area are settling and need attention. It was reported that money from the estate of Helen Grover will help towards some of this maintenance. All these donations help so much, and we thank the families of these people for their generosity. Christmas Eve services this year will be at North Waterford at 5 p.m.

The Stoneham Knight Riders Snowmobile Club met on Tuesday, Nov. 9, with about 12 members present. Secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. They have joined the Maine Snowmobile Association Arctic Cat Contest with grand prize of a 1994 Arctic Cat Jag. Members have tickets for $2 each if you would like one.

Our sympathy this week goes out to the family of Donald M. Barker who passed away on Wednesday, Nov. 10, in Boston. He was the son of Hubert and Esther Barker.

Judith Grover Tent No. 17, D.U.V. met at the Grange Hall on Monday, Nov. 8, with eight members present. Bessie House, past president acted as president; Michelle Cary as senior vice president, Beatrice Farnum as chaplain, Amanda Jordan as guide. First nomination of officers was held. A verse, "Flour sack underwear," was read by Kathleen McAllister. Twenty-four calls were reported. Heather Jordan received the mystery package. Next meeting is the Christmas party with exchange of gifts and a tasting party.

The executive board of the Senior Citizens has decided instead of exchange of gifts at the December meeting, each one will bring a small gift to be given to some child in the "Christmas for Kids." These gifts are not to be wrapped.

The Historical Society promotes a knowledge and appreciation of antiques. They remind you that visiting a museum is uplifting and educational. The Woodstock Historical Society compares well with other historical societies in our area. We

When Armistice was declared at the 11th hour of Nov. 11, 1918, a young Phil Daye was one of those American soldiers stationed near Chateau-Thierry who was happy to see the hostilities come to an end. Now a resident of Norway and member of the Bethel American Legion Post, the 94-year-old Mr. Daye was the only WWI veteran present when tribute was paid to all veterans on the 75th anniversary of that day at the Jackson-Silver Post in Locke Mills.

He rode in the parade, helped toss the memorial wreath into the water near the Locke Mills Honor Roll, and spoke briefly at the ceremonies held at the Legion Hall after the parade. With him in the parade was Fannie Cummings, a teenager in 1918, who was to become the bride of a WWI Navy veteran and later Department President of Maine, American Legion Auxiliary. Riding with them was John E. Howe, 12 years old in 1918, who would be a veteran of WWII and a Department Commander of the American Legion.

Others who participated were the Jackson-Silver Auxiliary, Sons of the Legion (SAL), VFW, Daughters of Union Veterans of the Civil War and Bethel Cub Scouts.

A prayer by Chaplain Rodney Hanscom was followed by the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner"; have a large number of exhibits and an active membership. We share information with the public on a regular basis. Our society is doing its work well at the end of the century. Donations to the Historical Society have been: Evelyn Bean, some clippings; Larry Billings, some books on the New England village, drama and the Supreme Court; and Basil Sequin has given some blueprints.

The Woodstock Firemen's Auxiliary met on Wednesday evening at the fire hall. Six members were present. More members are needed; you don't need to have a fireman in your family to join, but if you do you should be a member anyway. Dues are very low and meetings are mostly once a month. Come support your fire department auxiliary. Next meeting is Jan. 12.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Gordon Billings.

LOCKE MILLS CHURCH SALE

The Ladies Circle of the Locke Mills Union Church will sponsor a church sale on Friday, Nov. 19 from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Lunch will be served at 11:15 a.m.

Jackson-Silver Post #68

salute to the flag and speeches by Harry Faulkner of the Bethel Mundt-Allen Legion Post; Jerry Smith of the Bethel VFW Post; and Brian Strickland, Oxford County Commander, American Legion. The program ended with everyone joining to sing "God Bless America."

A satisfying highlight of the day was a trip by six members of the Post and Unit to visit the 10 veterans who now reside at the Ledgeview Nursing Home in West Paris. The visit turned out to be a long one, as the visitors found so many other friends to chat with while there. A Christmas wish list was made and plans made to join these veterans for a special dinner before Christmas.

The auxiliary is busy selling light bulbs for $2 each, which can be purchased by anyone in honor of, or in memory of, any veteran. The bulbs will be lighted for the Christmas season on trees at the Legion Hall in Locke Mills. Funds realized from this sale will be used to purchase the Christmas gifts which will be presented to these confined veterans at the dinner on Dec. 19. Anyone wishing to purchase the light bulbs is urged to contact Evanna Davis, Martha Stowell, or any other member of Jackson-Silver Auxiliary. Lighting of the two trees will take place on Dec. 2.

Post Meeting

Members of the post met at their hall on Thursday, Nov. 4, at 7 p.m. for their bi-monthly meeting.

Previous to the official business meeting the Post joined the Auxiliary in hearing a report accompanied by slides of a fine group of young people of Telstar High School whom the Post helped on their trip to Newry, Ireland, earlier this year.

Melinda Remington, who was a chaperone with the group on their trip, showed many colored slides, and related many interesting facts and experiences of the group. It was most interesting and informative. The Post and Auxiliary were glad to have had the opportunity of making this contribution to the lives of these young people.

Following this event the regular business meeting was held.

Under sick call, it was reported that Comrade Edley Strickland's wife was to undergo surgery at a Massachusetts hospital. It was also reported that Mrs. Brenda Dyke was well on the road to recovery and that Irving Cummings was not as well as usual.

Under new business, a report was given and discussed on the purchase of new chairs.

The meeting adjourned with prayer by Chaplain Rodney Hanscom.

On Sunday there was a party at the home of Newton and Joyce Lamb to celebrate four birthdays: Judy McLaughlin, Peggy Lamb, Paula Lamb and Joyce Lamb. Those present were Paula and Ken Lamb, Kenie, Caleb and Kyle of Auburn; Peggy Lamb and John Beane of Palermo; Judy and Mike McLaughlin, Nina, Kyr and Kelly and friends; Wendy Lamb of Portland and Savvina Chowehury, U.S.M. Portland of Bangladesh. After dinner a birthday cake, apple pies and ice cream were enjoyed.

Wendy and Savvina spent the weekend with Newton and Joyce.

Donna Melville has been spending a couple of weeks with her parents, Ivan and Ann Proctor.

Last week Gregg Inman, Vance Bacon, Joseph Perham and Vernon Inman spent some time at hunting camp in Albany. Walter Inman, Sr. was in Stoneham for most of last week with Alan Waterhouse. No one seemed to be lucky!

The "Crochety Ladies" had a potluck dinner with Cynthia Lamb at her cottage on North Pond on Wednesday. Those present were Lempi Cyr, June Demarest, Edith Morey, Miriam Inman and the hostess. We worked on items for the sale which will be on Thursday, the 18th.

Roland, Paul and Josh Dunham and Gordon Doughty have been at the Dunham camp hunting this week.

The Fall Sale and Chicken Pie Supper will be held on Thursday, Nov. 18 at the Universalist Church. The sale begins at 2 p.m. and the first setting for the supper is at 5:30 p.m. Tickets will go on sale at 4:30 p.m.

THANKSGIVING EVE SERVICE

A service of worship for the whole community will be held Wednesday, Nov. 24, at 7 p.m. at the West Bethel Union Church in West Bethel. Everyone is welcome.

Sponsored by the Bethel Area Clergy Association, the service will be led by area church people. The offering will support the activities of the association. Child care will be available during worship and a time of fellowship will follow. Those who would like to sing in the choir are invited to rehearse at 6:15.

THOUGHTS FROM THE Pastor's Study

The Bethel Area Clergy Association, with the help of pastors of surrounding churches, brings you these meditations. Not based on any set theme, they will be individual for each pastor. It is hoped you will find in these words comfort and hope for your daily life.

Unless I misunderstood a radio commentator, he said that a Washington woman economist has shown that the U.S. over recent years has spent more for destruction than for salvation, or was it education? In any case we stand out as the country investing in weapons of war, not education.

Christians in our baptism usually promised, or others promised for us, to renounce evil or destructive powers and to align ourselves with constructive powers or with Christ. All religions accentuate the positive and renounce the negative.

We can be very good people in our private lives seeking to avoid sin, or at least confess it, yet ignore destruction in the larger world. This destruction can be the increasing violence in our nation, the loss of useful lives to drugs, or family violence. Is there any connection between the increased violence in our nation on every level and the priority our nation puts on "defense spending," especially weapons and more atomic weapons than needed to blow up the world probably.

A longtime Bethel resident remarked that it is wonderful to see the community pulling together in a positive way. We are a constructive community. We provide the possibility of lifelong education. We work to reduce the power of drugs and the incidence of domestic violence-powers of destruction.

We know that we have within ourselves, in our community and in our nation, the possibility of both good and evil. We can, with God's help, align ourselves with the constructive forces against destructive forces.
